For Class on 1/29/19

Review the information below.

Read the abstract and discussion of Drs. Girlando and Eduljee’s article, An Empirical Investigation of the Malleability of Hofstede’s Cultural Dimensions: The Case of the United States and Russia.

We will discuss the article with Dr. Girlando during class.

Sections of a scholarly article

Abstract is a summary of the article.

Introduction explains why research was conducted.

Methods or Methodology explains how the research was conducted.

Results identifies the findings of the research.

Discussion explains what the results mean.

Conclusion explores what was learned.

References identify the research that was read by the author(s).

Note: Discussion and Conclusion information may be merged into one section, which might be labeled by either heading.

Reading a scholarly article

Read the abstract first. What do you learn? Finding? Population? How research was conducted?

Read the discussion and conclusion. These sections should provide a clear overview of the article.

Based on what you find interesting in these parts, you can now begin reading other sections of the article.
